

PROWESS

A Small Tech Company Scales Remote Work for Future Success

Prowess Consulting is a boutique consulting firm delivering technical marketing services, IT infrastructure services, and managed services to some of the largest U.S. companies. With a remote-first operating model, the Prowess IT team is looking to ease administrative burdens and lay the technological foundation for growth. With the Intel vPro® Platform, IT gets access to out-of-the-box performance optimizations, stability, and security features, including Intel® Hardware Shield. As Prowess adds Intel® Core™ vPro processor-based devices, IT will be able to access additional technologies for modern manageability like Intel® Active Management Technology, which is particularly well suited for SMBs because it centralizes device control while also providing hardware-based remote management capabilities for IT.

“Peace of mind is knowing that your hardware is being checked at each level, and that it’s built in with Intel Hardware Shield.”

Georgi Meyer,
Director of IT,
